This weekend, members of Catholic parishes around western Oregon are giving to Catholic Charities. This second collection helps ensure that life-changing services are available to our neighbors with greatest need.

Did you know?

Catholic Charities owns and operates a tiny home village hailed as the best run in the area. The refugee team offers classes in cultural education. The agency runs nine food pantries throughout Portland. They collect diapers, wipes and baby clothes for households that can't afford them.

This all is possible only because of supporters like you. Catholic parishes are taking up a collection for Catholic Charities this weekend.
